UNIVERSITY OF CAMBRIDGE

Department of Archaeology

Workshops for graduate and undergraduate students

Digital Skills for Dissertations and Publications

Co–ordinated by D.I. Redhouse

Lent Term, Academical Year 2023–2024
More information: https://www-comp.arch.cam.ac.uk/ds/

Photo: D.I. Redhouse

The Department of Archaeology presents workshops for undergraduate students, graduate students and other interested parties that introduce software useful for structuring text, producing good quality illustrations.

(e.g. of sites, sections and objects), and analysing archaeological data. They will also introduce geographical information systems (GIS) for map–making and spatial analysis. No previous experience is necessary.

The modules offered are:
- Graphics and Type–setting
- Introduction to GIS

Graphics and Type–setting each consist of four two–hour practical sessions on Fridays. Introduction to GIS consists of eight one–hour lectures and eight two–hour practicals, on Wednesdays and Thursdays respectively.

Contact: D.I. Redhouse
dir21@cam.ac.uk
www.arch.cam.ac.uk